

The Abriendo Mentes Community Garden Project

The Abriendo Mentes Community Garden Project is a community-driven effort to provide environmental education, organic vegetables, and beautiful public space to the people of Playa Potrero, Costa Rica. The garden will be located in the village center, and will act as a launching point for workshops on recycling, composting, sustainable gardening, and environmental awareness.

All donations to the garden project will go directly to the materials needed to create a sustainable vegetable garden for the community. All Labor has been donated to Abriendo Mentes from local hotels, building companies, and our own volunteers. Together, we are dedicated to laying the groundwork for a healthier, happier and “greener” future in this rural community.

Please help support our efforts by donating to the Garden Project!
